Milkmen's Revolt Laid

To Market Conditions

CHIICAGO, March 8.—The revolt of milk condensing companies to day against milk prices set by food commissions is due to unfavorable market conditions, J. J. Fitzpatrick, manager of the Borden company, declared to night.

Mr. Pitzpatrick said he understood there were 30,000,000 cases of condensed and evaporated milk on hand the free and to every the continued and to every the continued and to the president of the p conditions, J. J. Fitzpatrick, manager of the Borden company, declared to-night.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said he understood there were 30,000,000 cases of condensed and evaporated milk on hand in the United States. Domestic consumption runs about 15,000,000 cases a year, leaving 14,000,000 cases for export. The government, which fixes its own price for purchasing, has tonnage for only 4,200,000 cases a year.

"With no visible outlet for nearly 10,000,000 cases, condensaries are not cager to buy high priced milk to add to their stores," he said.

For the Chicago district, which includes Southern Wisconsin, Northern Illinois, Northwestern Indiana and Western Michigan, the price was at first fixed at $2,83 a hundredweight to the farmer. This figure was arrived at by a commission which, at the request of State Food Administrator Harry A. Wheeler, went into every phase of the subject. Farmers, however, protested so vigorously that further consideration was given, and a new price of $3,10 fixed.

THE EGGS ARE ROLLING

The eggs have heard the Easter call and are on the way, At the rate of twenty-three to thirty-seven thousand cases a The Consumers' Club can give you the best of eggs at arrival cost plus three cents a dozen, any day that you will tele phone the Service Station, Merningside 7794, 7795 or 8775 and place a twelve-dozen order. We follow the market closely buying from day to day, and the price will probably be between 40 and 45 cents. But whatever it is you will know just what

The prices given in the market quotations of 43 to 45 cents are fair enough if the eggs are first class. But only the chain stores reflect the drop in the wholesale market—and they do so imperfectly. The grade of eggs quoted in the wholesale market at 50 cents must have been laid by pedigreed hens, for the market was 38 cents for first grade eggs on Friday.

Pasteurized butter, that has received the highest score possible, coming direct from a farmers' cooperative organization in Minnesota, can be had for 53 cents a pound.

Let us serve you, and if you are dissatisfied you need never come back except to get a refund on your purchase. We have over one hundred enthusiastic clubs repeating their orders constantly. All sorts and conditions and sizes of clubs, from an organization of one member ordering twelve dozen eggs at long intervals to crubs of seventy-five in office buildings ordering three hundred dozen a week—the plan can be fitted to the need

THE VEGETABLE MARKET

The spinach and lettuce, new cabbage and tomatoes are crowding the winter vegetables, of which we are more or less tired, but the most prominent feature of the wholesale market is the heavy supply of the winter products still on hand. Turnips, carrots, cabbage and onions are - 81 all very reasonable. Carrots are down to one-half cent wholesale, and onions which are coming in heavily, are one of the cheapest foods on the market.
